The four texts below were all automatically generated by a Markov machine, using one original speech in each of the four speeches of George W. Bush. Can you guess who underlies which text?

Speech 1

«This election had many stories that while she's no longer with us to the White House – a party founders if the dream of our world that we can't, we will get there we are mothers who will listen to you.

For that is the true strength from the enormity of the United States and the likeliest candidate for the very firsts and may God Bless the United States of Americans who sent a message to the White House – a party founded on this election, she touched down – we will responsibility where were told for generation rise to greatness a generation's apathy, who left their lives for us. There is so much. But there.

When there tonight without the challenges we face. I will lie awake after not only ourselves, but each of us cannot begin to imagination to heal the divided than ours, "We are not enemies, but each of us cannot begin to imagine, and we are met with you about all that sums up the spirit of a people who pressed on with that the temptation to heal the divides that timeless creed that sums up the spirit of a people that "We Shall Overcome." Yes we can.»

«My children, carry it home to your nations in it\'s neighborhood, to take them. In establish factories to be convenient to you all, and what we could be useful to them all, we wish as a true father to them all, we wish as a true father should be useful to them. Some of your friends & children, they are increasing in their numbers will be wishing to set out on your return home.

Yet we live in peace & friends, and I hope he will have you constantly rising & falling every day, but you are furnishing them with us to retire from all the people or bad spirits should do you all, and what we could be useful to them, and to tell your people, and tell them that from the seat of the Missipi, and of uniting them the necessities they want in ex-change for their furs & pelts whatever we can get for their furs & peltries. We will provide carriages to convey you, and a person to go with you we desire to make war on one another, they should not stop here, but go on and see your neighborhood, to take them. In establishing a trade with you we desire that we become father should raise up clouds between us.

My children. We are now your fathers have been so long here that we seem like you to see that you want for nothing. I wish you, my children, carry it home to your nation refuse you justice. And remember the words I now speak to you my children. You are come from the other side of the govmnt. of the Missipi, and of uniting them that from the day that they have become as numerous as the leaves of the govmnt. of the great spirit that he has protected you though the journey and brought you safely to the residence of you. By the time you constantly in his power. I have now arrived where the sun rising. You have so far seen that while you are here have seen him and heard his words. When he returns he will have you come back, the snows will be wishing to set out on your return home.»

«In that moment, I started this journey. In that moment, I started in Cologne. Thank you for last weekend, Gordon.

OK, I made those up. But don't get there in Brighton before. People are dying over there, needlessly dying, at a ridiculous rate and take bold action. It's every bit as noble as your grandparents fighting the Nazis.

I don't even know what this problem is and what this problem is and what that point when a young Tony Blair and Gordon Brown are really big. Excuses? Horseshit.

So let me say this and mean it: we have to let democratically elected governments -- not the EU and G-8. So this isn't a cause. 6,500 African farmer.

I've been here in the war in Iraq. Still am. But ending extreme poverty by the results.

Thanks for listening.»

Speech 4

«Six months ago I came here to address the graduating class of 2005 that four years at this academy had prepared them morally, mentally and physically for the combat missions over time, they are recognize Iraq and elsewhere.

Still others are training with Navy SEAL teams that would be create chaos for the challenges ahead. And now they're led by an America's will be persuaded to support and the willingness to kill the innocent and create chaos for the uniform and helping us bringing honor to the farthest regions of the 21st century: the global war on terrorist named Zarqawi, Al Qaida's chief of operations in Iraq, they can be marginalized and deliver their service is needed because the vacuum that will hunt the enemy in Iraq is a combination deserves an unwavering commitment to protect minority rights.

Many are foreigners who will fly combat power of the United States to them about the most lethal: the terrorists have nothing to power.

We believe that, over the Iraqi cities to them about the importance of the United States Navy and Marine rifle platoons that will storm terrorist safe houses in lightning raids. Others are prepared them morally, mentally and physically for the capacity and the other atrocities we see on our television.

Yet the terrorists have made it clear strategy for victory in the Middle East and try to establish a totalitarian Islamic empire that do, most reject an Iraq is a combination deserves an unwavering commitment to protect minority rights.»
